PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

Change and Challenge, and where is planned giving and major gifts headed? What is my/our future? Karen R. Cooper, NCPG Board Member and Chairman of the 2009 National Council of Planned Giving Conference in Denver, will present a thorough update on our profession based upon the recent Strategic Directions Taskforce Report. Forthcoming change includes re-branding of NCPG to become "Partnership in Philanthropic Planning" (PPP). All fundraising professionals and foundation executives will value the far reaching implications of this study presented by Ms Cooper.

ABOUT THE PRESENTER

Karen R. Cooper is the regional representative, planned and major gifts (New England and New Jersey), for the Christian Children's Fund, an international service organization. Prior to working for CCF, she directed major and planned gifts for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Providence. Ms. Cooper began her career in development as the director of alumni and parent affairs at her alma mater, Salve Regina University in Newport, Rhode Island, and as the director of annual giving at Bridgewater State College in Bridgewater, Massachusetts. Ms. Cooper served on the board of the Planned Giving Council of Rhode Island for five years, including service as president. She has served as a mentor for Women in Development of Greater Boston and is a member of the Planned Giving Group of New England. Ms. Cooper has presented on a variety of planned giving topics regionally and nationally. Her speaking engagements include the International Catholic Stewardship Council (ICSC) and the National Conference on Planned Giving.
